“Richard, we heard you were in a sulk, so we’ve all come to help.”

“Housekeeping, Herr Professor, is not an exact science.”

“How about some sex and violence for poor ol’ Granny?”

"For what it's worth, Jane, I, too, found first grade a drag. But I hung in there, and now, needless to say, I'm mighty glad I did."

"So you've read my books and you've brought wine. Good."

"Of course you have strengths, dear. It's just that you don't communicate them."

"To recombinant DNA!"

"Quasi-innocent, Your Honor."

“Chet was a soft-liner when everyone was taking a hard line. Now he’s taking a hard line and everyone else is a soft-liner.”

“Why the hell don’t we have ‘strong links to the oil industry’?”

“Peekaboo!”

"Gosh, you're being terribly nice! I'm not sure I deserve free checking."

"O.K., then, it's settled. We present it to the public with all its pros and cons, we let the media chew on it for a while, we go through a lot of soul-searching, and then we go ahead and do it."

“Is that her warlock or are they just living together?”

"They've taken away my desk, my phone, my secretary, and my 'From the desk of' pads. On the other hand, they haven't fired me, so I guess I'm free to roam the halls."

"I wish you'd try not to do those A and B things, because you never get to B."

“Mr. Bradshaw, your son is here. He’s given up living in the teepee and wants to join the firm.”

"A tension-lessening little thing happened to me on my way to the Assembly this morning."

"Are you home, Elizabeth? Elizabeth? Elizabeth, I've gone bonkers."

*"If you can't get Riley to talk to you, Mr. Henderson, don't worry about it.
He'll still fix your fuel pump. Riley, fix Mr. Henderson's fuel pump."*

“The automobile dilemma doesn’t touch me. I gave up driving in 1965 and took up drinking.”

"It's hard to believe that only yesterday he was a no-nonsense, take-charge guy."

"Whatever he is, he certainly looks the part."

*"It's true that I promised you my kingdom for a horse,

"I feel I should warn you, old boy. Our faculty teas are always just tea."

“Don’t jump. I am merely touching you. Contact.”

"You've heard both our editorial and a reply to our editorial. Now here is Mr. Ron Emerson, speaking for those who have no opinion either way."

“There are days, Hank, when I don’t know who’s President, what state I’m from, or even if I’m a Democrat or a Republican, but, by God, I still know how to bottle up a piece of legislation in committee.”

"Arnie's a little upset. It just dawned on him that he's never in his whole life missed a meal."

“Lord knows what he’s keeping in shape for now.”

“Gentlemen, I want you to stop making footballs and start turning out soccer balls!”

“Yes, I have to admit you’ve always been nice to me, but you’re nice to everyone.”

“Look, I’m a fact, you’re a fact. Right?”

*“Mr. Arnold, this is Buddy, in Small Loans.
Can we spare a dime?”*

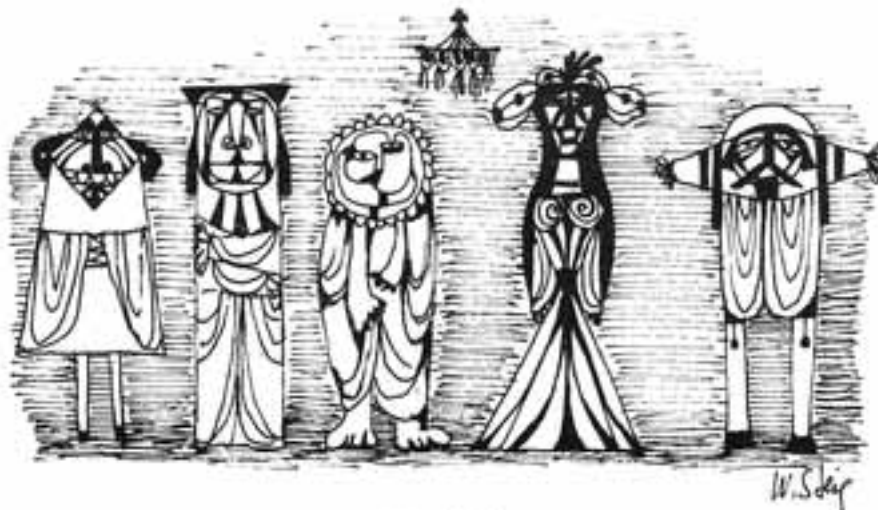

*"I'd like to know how you really feel about me, Elena—
I mean, of course, me vis-à-vis you."*

"Eric Sevareid has retired, but I like to think that somewhere out there, on his own time, he's still commenting on the crucial issues of our day."

Cast of Characters

"Hi. I need no introduction. Who are you?"

“Don’t ask me why, but for some reason the Administration seems to be wooing me.”

“Now don’t get me wrong. It’s not that I think it’s any big deal to be honest. It’s just the way I was brought up.”

“What do you think makes Rome so great? Is it the sense of personal worth, the seriousness of purpose, the imperial glory, or the fabulous orgies?”

“No!” shouted Mr. Bixbey, slamming his fist down on the table. The floor shook, the walls trembled. Mr. Watson turned ashen. ‘Y-y-you m-m-mean w-w-we . . .’ The words wouldn’t come out. He seemed to choke on each syllable.”

"To the next generation of Martinis!"

"You're in the wrong profession. They'd never name a candy bar after a judge."

*“Good afternoon, Madam. Two of us are from the F.B.I.
The man in the middle is, I’m sorry to say, an impostor.”*

“‘Thornhill,’ I said, ‘the tri-state area isn’t big enough for both of us.’”

"I'm afraid I must concur with with Dr. Hamilton and Dr. Movin. The cause of death was taxes."

*"The holiday season is cresting and about to come crashing down upon us.
Do you have any last-minute statement to make before we're engulfed?"*

"Touché, Hadley. You're fired."

"Miss Thou."

"You're going to laugh when I say this, but I think you're very, very human."

"I have no intention of retiring. Football has been very good to me."

“And how much is this bit of nonsense?”

"As far as Dwight's concerned, Abercrombie & Fitch is gone but not forgotten."

“No jokes this morning, Ridgely. I don’t want to lose the edge on my righteous wrath.”

"You gotta hand it to the weatherman. He said it was gonna snow!"

"Do you want to know what I think, Andrea? I think your therapy isn't working."

"May we share this cab, sir?"

"That's the gist of what I want to say. Now get me some statistics to base it on."

“Yeeaah!” “Yeeaah!” “Yeeaah!”
“Yeeaah!” “Yeeaah!”

“Yeeeeeeaaaah!”

“The New Year is approaching, Miriam—traditionally a time of new beginnings. I suggest we use the occasion to dedicate ourselves to restoring that atmosphere of trust and mutual respect which characterized the early years of our marriage, and that in that spirit we continue to work together toward what I sincerely hope will be an amicable divorce.”

"I'd say you're either very knowledgeable or very drunk."

"I think everyone today enjoyed my performance, if I do say so myself."

"Would you like to freshen up?"

“An order of meat and potatoes. I’m a meat-and-potatoes man.”

“For God’s sake! Can’t you ever do something without first finding out what the federal guidelines are?”

"Nothing will ever happen to you."

“Tell him the old-boy network is here to see him.”

“O.K., kiddies, as Good King Wenceslas put it, ‘Say when.’”

"Before I respond to that, are we discussing women the sex or women the movement?"

“Hey, look. Pockets.”

"It's a task force of the best brains in the country, but so far it hasn't jelled."
